filled with some of the city's most unique businesses, and this incredible exhibition will help drive footfall through the arcades, and into stores." Sean Crowley, Director of Drama at Royal Welsh College of Music and Drama, said: "After a difficult 18-months for those in the creative industry, we're delighted to play our part in this year's campaign, and help give creatives the boost and exposure they need and showcase the extraordinary talents of our Design for Performance graduates." ■ You can follow City of Arcades on Twitter and Instagram.
